Partnership in KTM

Kristi Coldwell and Naomi Potter

Workshop: Effective Partnership and Collaboration

Kristi Coldwell is the Senior Advisor for Transplant Research Advocacy at the Transplant Research Foundation of BC. Having undergone a heart transplant as a teenager due to congenital heart disease, Kristi is acutely aware of the role research plays in improving outcomes and enhancing quality of life. She believes patient and family partners have an important role in research, ensuring it is meaningful and accountable to all stakeholders.

Naomi Potter is a PhD student in Experimental Medicine at UBC and a Research Assistant for HLI's KTM Project. As Co-chair of HLI's Trainee Association, Naomi is an advocate for improving the educational experience of trainees through initiatives such as the KTM program. She is passionate about KTM in research and looks forward to hosting this workshop on effective partnership and collaboration with KTM stakeholders such as patient partners.
